Stack Your Cash Challenge

Week 6: Grow Your Money Momentum

You've reached the final step of the Stack Your Cash Challenge! This is an opportunity to recognize everything you've achieved, including the money you've saved throughout the journey. From planning your spending to identifying extra savings and making more intentional choices, each step has contributed to stronger financial habits and measurable progress.

What matters most now is not just the amount you've saved, but the consistency you've shown in making small, positive changes. Those choices have added up over time—and they're worth celebrating.

This milestone is not the end of your savings journey, but a point to reflect on what you've accomplished and carry that progress forward with confidence.

Build on Your Progress

You've made real progress throughout this challenge, and it's worth recognizing how far you've come. Use the tips below to reflect on what worked well, celebrate your savings wins, and focus on the habits that will help you keep building strong money progress going forward.

- Think about which habits became easier over time, such as planning ahead or pausing before spending
- Identify the decisions that helped you avoid unnecessary spending and redirect money toward savings
- Highlight one key behavior that made the biggest difference and commit to continuing it moving forward

Money Move of the Week

People who save regularly are about 2x more likely to keep building their savings over time compared to those who save occasionally, highlighting how the actions you've taken during this challenge can have lasting impact.

- Build on your wins–focus on what's working well and use it as your foundation going forward
- Set one simple, realistic money goal for the next few weeks based on what worked best for you

You've built real momentum–keep it going and continue stacking your progress forward.
